mixed. The Head mistress of this school, appointed some two years ago, has framed her schemes of instruction on broad and intelligent lines; she has gained the confidence of her scholars and the staff, and although as yet insufficient time has elapsed for the development of the full results of her work, they are so far very encouraging, particularly in the English subjects.

The exercises and work seen on the day of the visit showed that proper care is taken to lay sound foundations for future work, that the children are being trained to work well and cheerfully, and that due stress is laid on essentials.

Other features noted were -

1. The careful attention given to the results of the Terminal tests, and the valuable criticisms & suggestions made by the

2. The judicious use made of practical work in the Arithmetic.
3. The general fostering of individual work in the upper group.

Infants' Division.

The Infants with Std. I, are taught by a Supplementary Teacher who grounds them carefully and soundly in the principal subjects, the Reading and Composition of Standard I in particular being promising. Her work will increase in value as she gains the necessary experience and skill to keep all sections of the group usefully occupied.

Dec. 21st This afternoon the Time Table was disregarded. The afternoon was given over to games, a tea-party, and Christmas Tree with toys for each child. The tea-party and Xmas Tree was provided by the managers & teachers. A most enjoyable time was spent. The toys were
